Duke Energy To Invest $500 Million In NC Solar Power Expansion

Duke Energy has announced their plan to invest $500 million into solar projects across the state. Three new solar farms are on tap in North Carolina. Duke Energy has announce that they will own and build facilities in Duplin, Wilson and Bladen Counties. The Warsaw plant in Duplin will be the largest solar plant east of the Mississippi River.

Along with the new construction, Duke Energy has also signed five purchasing agreements from solar projects in Bladen, Richmond, Scotland, Cleveland and Beaufort Counties.

Construction on the solar projects is expected to start early next year.
